ULTIMATUM TO GERMANS IS DEMAND OF FRENCH

New Entente Crisis Is Now Developing Over Reinforcements

SOWING DISCORD

Fiance Insists Britain Must Support Before Council Meets

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 28.—The newspapers give prominence to a new Entente crisis, created by the French demand for the settlement of the question of reinforcements for Upper Silesia before a meeting of the Supreme Council can be held.

It is stated that France considers that the immediate reinforcement of the French forces in Upper Silesia by at least a division is imperative; otherwise the French garrison there may be considerably imperilled.

The French Government considers Germany's refusal to permit the passage of reinforcements unless requested by all the Allies as a deliberate attempt to sow dissension between the Allies and therefore insists on Great Britain's supporting France in an ultimatum to Germany demanding immediate facilities for the passage of reinforcements.

France has intimated that she cannot agree to a meeting of the Supreme Council until this ultimatum has been delivered and complied with.

Curzon Finds France Is Determined; Must Have More Troops

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 27.—Despite yesterday's promises of an Anglo-French compromise on the Upper Silesian question, Reuter's Agency has received the dramatic announcement from French sources that the French Ambassador has informed Lord Curzon that the French Government deem a meeting of the Supreme Council impossible until the question of sending troops to Upper Silesia has been settled.

AMBASSADORS CONFER

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 27.—The conference of Ambassadors met yesterday under the presidency of M. Jules Cambon. Telegrams were read which had been received from the Inter-Allied High Commission at Oppeln, in Upper Silesia.

Paris, July 27.—According to reports through the Havas Agency, there are numerous facts which go to indicate common action on the part of the Germans and Soviets in Communist centers with a view to fomenting trouble in Upper Silesia before the announcement of the decision of the Supreme Council.

MOTOR CAR MEN TO PLAN SHOW; MEETING TODAY

Trade Representatives Will Gather At Palace Hotel This Afternoon

Shanghai motor car and accessory dealers and distributors will meet at the Palace Hotel at 5 o'clock today to formulate plans for the motor car exhibition that is planned for this autumn. Arthur West, who is managing the show, sent invitations to more than fifty trade representatives yesterday, and practically all of them either gave assurances that they would attend the meeting or send representatives.

At the meeting this afternoon Mr. West will outline what has already been done with reference to the show, and will submit a definite plan to the motor car men for continuing the project.

All those interested in any branch of the automotive or associated industries are invited to this afternoon's meeting.

MARCH OF EVENTS

BY BRUCE HOPPER

FAMINE, the terrible horseman of the Apocalyse, has visited northern China this year, swept on through Russia, and is now threatening the cotton belt of the United States in the wake of the other destroyer, Pestilence.

More astounding news never came out of the land of plenty. The ravages of the pellagra epidemic and shortage of money due to the slump in the cotton market are said to be the causes of the calamity. But in a rail dissected country such as the southern states a famine should be checked in its infancy.

The peculiarity of famine visitation is that the neighboring land is usually bountiful with food crops, and the only problem to be solved is one of transportation. China and Russia, still dependent to a large extent upon medieval caravans, suffer the full effects of the scourge. In olden times people of a famine district packed up and migrated to greener fields, as did the brethern of Joseph to Egypt. In India, the traditional seat of famine, the rail facilities have been so perfected by the British government that rice can be hurried to any part of the empire within a few days.

The situation in the southern states is aggravated by the prevalence of pellagra, the dreaded spring malady which burns the skin, stupifies the victim, and leaves him by Autumn a languid mummy. The disease is of recent origin, and was thought to be confined to Italian peasants. Special research into its causes are being conducted by the Rockfeller Institute. Late investigations tend to show it is carried by sand flies, as the sleeping sickness is spread by the tsetse fly. Remedies, even variety of diet as suggested by President Harding, have proved unavailing. The malady is one of the little understood curses inflicted upon man.

NOW that Kemal seems ready to evacuate his capital, Angora, before the advancing line of victorious Greeks the attentive world expects another flip in the policies of the Allies toward the combatants in the Near East. In no other situation growing out of the war have the arbiters of peace been so inconsistent and wavering. The general idea has been to back the under dog. When the Greeks seem likely to win it is time to bolster up the "Sick Man." When the Turk Nationalists threaten to bombard Constantinople is the moment for crying forward the Greeks. The Allies want a draw. The question is will there be a third juggling of the Treaty of Sevres if the Greek gets the Turk by the throat and refuses to obey the commanding tones of the referees.

THE excavator has turned to the light of day the cloisters of Herod in the ruined Philistine city of Ascalon. A mosaic court has been unearthed near Capernaum on the Sea of Galilee. The delving pick is never idle. Wars are fought, peace comes again, but the scholars are oblivious of contemporary events because of the fascination of re-discovering the old. They re-write for us the pages of history, for stone proof of written records involves a new marshalling of historical data.

One interesting expedition was temporarily called off by the failure of America to assume interests in the Near East by way of the Armenian mandate. Had the United States taken that mandate the Princeton expedition to Lydia would have started work last year, and by this time we would have more intimate knowledge of the first millionaire, Croesus, and something about his buried palaces at Sardis.

Fleming Is Sentenced To Serve Six Months For Contempt Of Court

Prominent American Attorney's Trial On Charge Of Criminal Libel Brought To Dramatic Close—Charges Are Still Pending

Proceedings in the United States Court for China in the case of Mr. William S. Fleming of the law firm of Fleming, Davies and Bryan were carried to a dramatic climax yesterday morning when Judge Charles S. Lobingier sent the well-known American attorney to prison for a term of six months after holding him guilty of flagrant contempt of court.

Following the preliminary hearing of the charge of criminal libel, which was made against Mr. Fleming by Mr. Stirling Fessenden of the firm of Fessenden and Holcomb in the first of two cases of the same kind now pending, American legal circles have been stirred by the situation that has arisen and public interest generally has been focused upon it.

After having been held for trial in the United States Court for China by Commissioner F. J. Schuhl on the charge made by Mr. Fessenden, the accused attorney was to have been arraigned yesterday. The throng that gathered to hear the proceedings filled every possible space in the court room and overflowed into the corridors leading to it. It was through this close packed throng that Mr. Fleming walked in the custody of U.S. Marshal E. E. Lurton after the sentence had been given and court adjourned. He was permitted to visit his office to arrange his affairs before he was placed in confinement in the prison which is situated on the floor above the court room.

Attorney Fleming's conviction on the charge of contempt of court followed upon a motion that he presented for a change of venue. As the contempt hearing intervened the Court did not rule upon the motion for a change of venue and the decision on this motion is yet to be handed down. In the event that the motion is denied, and legal opinion generally holds that a motion for change of venue cannot be entertained by the American Court here, then the trial on the charge of criminal libel will follow in due course.

It is stated that the fact that Mr. Fleming is confined as a federal prisoner for contempt of court will not cause any delay of the trials of the two charges of criminal libel that hang over him. While the trial of the charge made by Mr. Fessenden will not be called until the motion for change of venue is disposed of the trial of the charge that was made by Mr. Manuel Concepcion may be called at any time.

THE PROCEEDINGS

The following is the stenographic report of the proceedings:

Court: Mr. Clerk, you will read the information in Cause No. 1431.

Mr. Fleming: May it please the Court, the Marshal—

Court: You sit down until the information is read.

Mr. Fleming: I have a paper here—

Mr. W. A. Chapman, Clerk of the Court, then read the information.

Court: What is your pleading to this information, Mr. Fleming?

Mr. Fleming: I desire to file a petition and motion on application for change of venue.

Court: If you have anything you want to offer to the Court you may do so.

Mr. Fleming: If the Court please, I desire to argue this.

Court: You may do so right now.

Mr. Fleming: I am not pre-

4 EMPLOYES OF FRENCH BANK SUE FOR SALARY

Judgment was reserved by President Toussaint of the French Consular court yesterday in the suit of four employes of the Banque Industrielle de Chine against the local manager of the bank for indemnity of six months salary and passage money home following expiration of their service.

The suit is considered a test case in the French law of transactional settlement between a commercial debtor and his creditors.

M. du Pac de Marsoulies, attorney for the bank, filed a demurrer that the case be dismissed on the grounds that the law of transactional settlement provides for an administrator to co-operate with the manager of the bank in conducting the bank's affairs. The petition of the Banque Industrielle shareholders for such a settlement has been granted by the commercial court of Paris but the administrator for Shanghai has not yet been appointed. The local manager is thus prevented by the law from appearing alone as defendant, it is argued.

Mr. Julien Barraud, attorney for the plaintiffs, argued that debts acquired in China should not have to wait verification in France before payment is made. President Toussaint is reserving his decision on the bank's demurrer until the administrator is appointed.

It is learned that the bank offers to pay the four employes, M. Bouleau, M. Berube, H. Farine and R. Rouse, up to the end of July, two months extra salary, and their passage to France. Mr. Bouleau and Mr. Farine were well advanced in the bank service, and had the privilege of signing per procuration. The plaintiffs are still employed at the bank.

Mrs. W. F. Beaman Hurt At Mokanshan

News was received in Shanghai yesterday that Mrs. W. F. Beaman, home manager of the American Shanghai school, has been seriously injured at Mokanshan. It is reported that both arms are fractured.

Mr. Beaman, business manager of the school, left yesterday for Mokanshan, and will arrive there this morning. Local doctors are expecting a more complete report of the accident from Mr. Beaman.

GIVES DORMITORY FOR THE SHANGHAI AMERICAN SCHOOL

A memorial dormitory has been given to the Shanghai American School, according to an announcement made last night at a dinner given by Principal W. W. Bartlett and Mrs. Bartlett to the Board of Managers of the school. The building is being given by an American friend of the school in memory of her only son and will form one of the proposed group of cottage dormitoris of the institution.

"We are planning on an adaptation of the cottage plan of dormitories," Mr. Bartlett said last night. "This is the most approved plan for institution building today. Each cottage will accommodate thirty or more pupils and four or five teachers with social rooms, living rooms, etc. Some will be arranged for thirty pupils with rooms for a married teacher and his family. Every cottage will have teachers living in it. It was our hope in planning for these dormitories that, from time to time, an American family or individual would desire to construct one dormitory, giving to it their family name or the name of some member of the family. It is doubtful if any other opportunity in China equals this for an American who has money and desires to give it where it will accomplish the most. China is dotted with splendid schools built with American money for Chinese children. We are proud of these. But we believe our American children in China are entitled to as good a school as the best of the Mission schools. Give our children as good a plant as the best Misison school and they will make it the best school in the Orient."

"The dormitory plan is over and above the program already planned for raising funds for the new American School," Mr. Bartlett said. "And we will need it. The large number of reservations for fall which have been coming in during the last few weeks have shown us that there is great danger of our outgrowing the initial dormitory buildings of the new school before they are ready for occupancy. An additional dormitory will help to prevent this."

Fiction Writers On Inside On Far Eastern "Stuff"

By Elsie McCormick

SOMETIME after the Day of Judgment, when we are rather weary of running around with a quill in our hand, trying to interview famous Biblical characters for the Celestial Gazette and Advertiser, we intend to seek out a cool corner of the cerulean blue, place our feet firmly on one of the outer opalescent battlements, put a wet ribbon in our invisible Ethel Corcoran and write a few short stories on China as she really was.

We don't expect to have time to do it before then, nor to develop the ability, but some day when there isn't any time any more, or office hours or board bills, we intend to try it.

Have you read many of the short stories in American or British magazines, with the Far East for a background? You probably have, for the person who has been in China over a week and is therefore an authority enjoys nothing better than to read such stories for the purpose of picking flaws in them. We do, too, which is why we chose this subject. Nothing gives us more delight than to take up a magazine and see a Chinese character pictured in a kimono and wooden clogs, or a casual reference to a ricsha with four bearers.

But it is not only in details that the average short story with a Chinese background sins against the canons of probability. There are several types of such stories, depending on whether the magazine is given to light fiction, gruesome adventure, or tales that Maggie, the ribbon-counter girl, would call high-brow. But in any case, they are likely to bear about as little resemblance to the real China as a feather boa does to a boa-constrictor.

THE OLD BUNK

One of the most popular types of stories touching the Far East is the steamer romance. This is not as likely to belie the atmosphere of China as the others, but sometimes we have noted that the [illegible] before it reaches the China coast and the heroine usually gets off there to accompany her hero to his lonely post among the southern islands.

Such stories practically always concern adjacent steamer chairs, a girl in an attractive tam o' shanter who is very reticent for the first few days and then drops a book; and a hero with lean jaw, sinewy hands, a cap pulled over his forehead, eyes that look out unseeingly over the water, a number of war medals, and a desire "to forget."

It also contains many references to the Southern Cross phosphorescence dancing on the waves, and the throbbing of the great ship's engines as it plows its way through the moonlit path in the dark, silent waters. This latter description usually occurs on the evening when the hero tells the girl in the tam o' shanter the story of his adventurous past, punctuating the narrative with the popular masculine remark, "I don't know why I am telling you all this!"

It ends, of course, with the leaving of the chaperon, whose connection with the voyage was

JAPAN ACCEPTS WITH PROVISO OF PRIOR AGENDA

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 27.—Secretary of State Hughes announces that Japan has accepted the invitation to the Washington Conference, provided the agenda is agreed to in advance.

The Japanese Government, he adds, is of opinion that the subjects of discussion should be confined to those directly involved in the general question of disarmament, and that the introduction of problems solely concerning particular Powers, or of matters which may be regarded as faits accomplis can easily be avoided.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 27.—Japan's hope, as conveyed in the reply just sent to Washington, that the agenda of the Pacific Conference will be previously arranged, is believed to be the result of an informal understanding already come to between Tokio and Washington.

According to an authoritative statement, Japan's attitude towards President Harding's proposal is that she desires to enter into a fundamental discussion of the disarmament question, and to take part in the deliberation on Pacific questions with a view to mapping out broad principles of policy for the preservation of peace.

Wu Pei-fu Is Sending His Favorite 25th Division To Front With All Accessories

Expect Their Presence Alone Will Prevent Actual Fighting In Hostile Area---Carry Motor Cars To Intimidate Opponents—But Must Move On Honan

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Kiangshan.—At the Hupeh border I passed four lightly loaded trains which I estimate contained two thousand men with provisions and mules. The commanders and the Ford cars of Wu Pei-fu's twenty-fifth division from Changteh, Chihli, are expected to arrive at Hankow tonight with instructions to prevent the Hunan invasion but not to meddle with Hupeh politics. The officers state to me this conviction that the presence of the troops without fighting will be sufficient to accomplish their purpose. Further forces are en route, they assert.

Two Kwangs War Not Yet Closed Incident

Canton, July 27.—The Kwangtung-Kwangsi clash is not yet over despite the concessions offered by Shen Heng-yin, former aide to Lu Yung-ting, the Kwangsi war lord, who is now living in exile. General Hsu Chung-chi, in command of the Kwangtung vanguards has delivered an ultimatum to Shen to evacuate Hohsien, the only remaining stronghold in the hands of the Kwangsi militarists.

Shen, with his main forces concentrated in Hohsien, offered his wife and son as hostages and promised to co-operate with the victorious forces in a raid on Kweilin and Liuchow if he was allowed to remain at his post.

But in the midst of negotiations, both Kweilin and Liuchow fell into the hands of the Kwangtung Army and General Hsu now demands the immediate and unconditional withdrawal of Shen from Hohsien, under threat that he will pour troops into his city if he refuses to comply.

It is understood that a large number of Kwangsi militarists are supporting Shen in his defiance and another combat between the forces is quite probable.

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, July 28 (5.45 p.m.).—General Wu Pei-fu, the man of the hour in the Hupeh-Hunan conflict, will proceed to the scene of activities in deference to the decision of a military conference held at Paotingfu on Tuesday. He will conduct an "armed investigation" of the conflict ostensibly on behalf of North China.

The conference was presided over by Tsao Kun, the Chihli Tuchun, and attended by all the military officers of the Chihli faction or their representatives. Decision to send Wu to Hupeh together with his third division was reached in view of the threatening attitude assumed by Tuchun Chang Tso-lin of Fengtien. Chang stated that he would despatch a section of his Mongolian Expeditionary Forces to aid Tuchun Wang Chan-yuan if Chihli refrained from sending reinforcements to Hupeh.

The conference further decided to enlist the aid of General Wang Shih-cheng, the able Chihli leader and former Premier, and Chiang Kwei-ti, the Tartar General of Chahar in anticipation of further development in the Shensi situation, which has been engaging the attention of the Chihli forces.

Chihli will therefore place two divisions and one mixed brigade in the field. Three other brigades will be engaged in the defense of Hupeh against the invasion of the Hunanese and other southern forces: the first and second brigades of Shantung and the Honan brigade under Chin Yun-ao, the premier's brother. The second naval squadron up the Yangtsze has been ordered by Tuchun Wang to duty at Hsinti on the Hupeh-Hunan border.

Martial law has been declared in the Wu-han cities. The Central Government has consented to supply ammunition for all the expeditionary forces to Hupeh and has asked Wu Pei-fu not to believe the statement made by Chao Heng-ti, commander-in-chief of the Hunan forces, who has denied that he had anything to do with the attack on Hupeh.

The Hunan invading army consists of two divisions and four mixed brigades, equal in strength to the expeditionary forces sent by Chihli, Shantung and Honan. It has its headquarters at Yochow. The moving spirits are Chiang Tso-ping and Kung Keng, two Kuomintang leaders.

Upon instructions of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, Tuchun Liu Chung-hou of Szechuen is formulating military plans to march on Ichang to divide the attention of the Hupeh authorities.

Meanwhile Dr. Sun is consolidating Szechuen, Yunnan, Kweichow, Kwangtung and Kwangsi in an attempt to form a Southwestern Alliance. He has invited General Tang Chi-yao, the former Yunnan Tuchun, to join him in his new plan.

Chi Shih-yuan, Tuchun of Kiangsu and Mr. Hsiung Hsi-ling, former Premier, have both undertaken to mediate the dispute between Hupeh and Hunan. They both believe that the controversy should be settled locally without resorting to a general call to arms.

IRISH QUESTION HUMILIATION IS LORD'S ADVICE

Why So? Asks Birkenhead When He Questions Salisbury's Words

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 27.—In the House of Lords today, the question of the Irish conversations was raised by Lord Salisbury, who complained that the statement in the House of Commons yesterday by Mr. Austen Chamberlain indicated that Mr. de Valera's answer was not likely to be received for several weeks. He added: "We feel that a great shame and humiliation is involved in these negotiations. We are awaiting a statement from the Government to make our position clear."

Lord Birkenhead (Lord Chancellor) after explaining the position as outlined by Mr. Chamberlain in the House of Commons yesterday, said he did not comprehend Lord Salisbury's use of the word "we." He declared that he himself and his colleagues formerly belonging to Lord Salisbury's party were not ashamed of the negotiations or the proposals they had made. If the proposals were accepted, they would not merely welcome but would challenge criticism. He was not aware that anything had happened to justify the belief that weeks would elapse before an answer was received.

UP TO PARLIAMENT

The Lord Chancellor added that, if the proposals were accepted, the Government would recommend them to Parliament. If they failed to obtain the support of Parliament they would consider whether necessary support was likely to be forthcoming from elsewhere.

Lord Crewe said that Lord Birkenhead's speech suggested that the Government had gone further than conversations to discover a basis for a conference, and that they had suggested definite terms for acceptance or refusal.

Lord Birkenhead replied that a document which the Cabinet had sanctioned was in existence and had been communicated to the representatives of Southern Ireland, which made plain what the proposals were for which the Government was willing to take the responsibility, and to sumbit to Parliament, but no definite "take-it-or-leave-it" terms had been presented.

Lord Salisbury then gave notice that he would move a resolution on the subject of the negotiations on August 3.

Attorney Fleming Is Sentenced By Judge Lobingier To Serve Six Months In Jail For Contempt Of Court

pared to argue now. I have many authorities to get and I only had notice of this hearing yesterday afternoon.

Court.—Have you anything to say now?

Mr. Fleming then read the petition and motion on application for change of venue.

Court: Now, what have you got in support of that?

Mr. Fleming.—I have an affidavit in support of that.

SUBMITS AFFIDAVIT

Mr. Fleming here submitted to the Clerk of the Court the motion and affidavit.

Mr. Rodger.—If Your Honor please, in view of what the accused has said, I submit that this is a deliberate plan to disqualify the only court that has jurisdiction over the accused, and this application is made with that purpose in view and that only, and he being a lawyer he well knows that no other court can try him, and his purpose is to deliberately attempt to discredit any one who has anything to do with this prosecution.

I think the accused hopes to gain immunity from punishment for the offense charged against him in this way, and it would be a great mistake to allow such a thing.

He knows there is no law to support his motion. He hasn't quoted any law in support of his motion; he can't quote any law in support of it.

And as for this affidavit before this Court, under that he is guilty of the greatest contempt of court. This whole thing is a tissue of wild fancies and the only reason he makes this is to confuse the issue, to try and make such a muddle of his own matter that the whole matter will be confused, and he thereby might escape trial.

Court.—I will hear you first—

Mr. Fleming.—If Your Honor please—

Court.—Just a moment!

Mr. Fleming.—I thought you said you would hear me.

Court.—I will hear you first on this question: why you should not be punished for a direct contempt, committed deliberately, openly, intentionally, in the presence of the court. I will hear anything you have to say in response to—

ARGUES AGAINST CONTEMPT

Mr. Fleming.—Irrespective of any consequences to me, I have to defend myself. The law is absolutely clear on the point that an accused is subject to trial only before an unprejudiced tribunal. That law is—

Court.—Just a moment! I want to hear you on the question of why this is not contempt—not on the ground of change of venue.

Mr. Fleming.—This cannot be contempt of Court, if the Court please, if done pursuant to rights given me by law. I claim that I am acting according to the law. I will argue the question orally or submit a brief. I have filed this motion pursuant to law, and I claim I am within the law. The fact that I filed it, or have had the courage to file it, can not be questioned by this Court or any other tribunal. If Your Honor will give me a day to prepare, I will argue it before you. I submit that under the law I am entitled to do what I have done.

Mr. Rodger.—In reply to that, I am going to say that there is no authority for such contempt of Court, and there is no authority for such improper statements being made, and if Mr. Fleming began from now until dooms day he could not find such authority.

Mr. Fleming.—I have a wealth of authority, if the Court pleases.

Mr. Rodger.—Produce it.

Mr. Fleming.—I will produce it. I am certainly entitled to what any other defendant is. If the Court will give me a day or two—If the Court does not want to hear me orally, I will file a brief.

Court.—I am ready now to hear what you have to say. You are charged with contempt in the presence of the Court.

Mr. Fleming.—Your Honor, who makes this charge?

Court.—The Acting District Attorney just made it.

Mr. Fleming.—He suggested it. Is Your Honor to take a bald statement like that that this is contempt of Court.

Mr. Rodger.—Anybody can see it is.

Mr. Fleming.—I say it is not under the law, and I demand time.

Mr. Rodger.—It is filed for the purpose of discrediting the Court. It is filed willfully, maliciously, deliberately and in contempt of Court.

FLEMING ASKS DELAY

Court.—The affidavit should speak for itself. I have read it. I am ready to hear anything you have to say.

Mr. Fleming.—If the Court pleases, I ask for one day's time in which to prepare the argument in this matter.

Court.—You have had time to prepare these affidavits. You can proceed.

Mr. Fleming.—If the Court pleases—

Court.—I am pretty familiar with the law this case as handed down by the Supreme Court, but I will hear whatever you have to say on it.

Mr. Fleming.—Will Your Honor permit me to send to my office for a brief?

Court.—A brief?

Mr. Fleming.—I have one prepared for another case, but I can use it here.

Court.—I have no objection to your sending for a brief. I am ready in the meantime to hear anything else you have to say.

Mr. Fleming.—I have nothing to say just now.

Mr. Rodger.—I have another complaint here which we might hear while we are waiting.

Court.—What is that? .. .. ..

Mr. Rodger.—The Concepcion complaint.

Court.—I don't think we are prepared to hear that this morning. Has the complaining witness anything to say?

Mr. Fessenden.—Your Honor, I wish to say that the statements made here are grossest contempt, that I have ever seen or known of. They are absolutely false. The purpose for which they were put there is apparent. It is a premeditated attack on this Court and other people, which has been going on for a long period of time. Every one knows, just as well as I do, in this jurisdiction there is no change of venue in law to support it, and I think the District Attorney knows that that statement was put in here for the purpose of attacking this Court, and if allowed to stand it will imperil its very existence. That is all, Your Honor, I have to say, except that I believe contempt of that kind should be dealt with as severely as the law permits.

Court.—While we are waiting for this brief on this matter, if any of the counsel have anything to say, I am prepared to hear them.

JUDGE ROSS SPEAKS

Mr. Rodger.—Judge Ross is appearing with me in this matter in behalf of the prosecution. I understand he wishes to say something.

Judge Ross.—If the Court please, I think the ground has been quite sufficiently covered by the Acting District Attorney and Mr. Fessenden, except one point. I would like to suggest to the Court another reason for the impropriety of the affidavit and motion which Mr. Fleming has filed is that the only procedure by which this Court can be attacked is impeachment.

At this point, 10:10 o'clock, a.m., Mr. Davies entered with documents, which he submitted to Mr. Fleming.

Court.—I will hear you solely on the question of why you should not be punished for contempt. Your answer to your motion we will hear at another time. I wish to hear you solely on the question of why you should not be punished for contempt of court by what you have said and done here this morning.

Mr. Fleming.—As I have said before, my justification is under the law and I will show under the law I was justified in what I did.

While Mr. Fleming was citing an authority, Mr. Rodger interrupted with—Is that a change of venue?

Mr. Fleming.—Are you going to interrupt me or am I allowed to proceed?

Mr. Rodger.—I am going to interrupt you if I think it is necessary, Mr. Fleming.

Court.—All I have to say, all I wish to hear you now on is your justification. If you can find anything on that I will hear you.

CITES AUTHORITIES

Mr. Fleming continued, "I am coming to that now." The respondent then proceeded to quote an opinion of Justice McKenna of the United States Supreme Court in a recent decision. Mr. Fleming read the opinion, pointing out the interpretation of Section 21.

"Now the affidavit which I have filed here, if the Court please, complies with that statute," Mr. Fleming continued, "and I submit that under that case Your Honor is disqualified."

Mr. Fleming then took up the Alaska code and read Cox vs. U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, 8th Circuit, 100 Fed., page 293; S. W. page 693; Section 5378, Rev. St. 1899, in relation to writs of habeas corpus. He then continued:

Holding, if the Court please, that where a person is adjudged guilty of contempt—or the effect of this ruling, if the Court please, is where a person is adjudged—that Your Honor has no jurisdiction since this application was filed to proceed further on passing on contempt or proceed with this trial. If it does, if Your Honor please, it might be ruled out on a writ of habeas corpus.

Now, if the Court please, the statement has been injected here by the District Attorney that I am guilty of contempt. There is no proof. The affidavit, if the Court please, is proof. The affidavit is all the law requires and the question of the truth of the facts therein stated is a matter which Your Honor cannot yourself inquire into because you would be making yourself the judge of whether what I said to you is right or wrong. Furthermore, it was never intended by our law, or any other law, that an accused should be tried by his greatest enemy. That I have shown here very clearly.

It will be suggested, if you don't sit, who will sit? If there is some laxity in the law I am not responsible for that. I didn't make the law; if I had had something to do with the making of the law it might be different. I am not to suffer for that. If the judge finds himself in the position that he is disqualified that is not the fault of the parties appearing before him. I cannot have an impartial trial and therefore I am entitled to change of venue. As I say, the law never intended that I should be tried by my greatest enemy.

MR. RODGER REPLIES

Mr. Rodger.—In reply to that with regard to contempt, in the first place, if Mr. Fleming had a bona fide wish to change of venue, it would be unnecessary for him to put in all those mis-statements of facts, irrelevant and scandalous statements, that have appeared in his affidavit. A great many of those he very well knows himself are untrue of this Court—a great many of them are within the judicial knowledge of this Court and the Court knows that they are untrue. If this Court could be disqualified by an affidavit of this kind then any one coming in this Court charged with any offense could, by libelling the court or injuring the court in some way, escape trial and secure immunity from his crimes, for there is no other court which could try him. There is no change of venue in this jurisdiction, and no authorities have been cited for change of venue in this jurisdiction, and Mr. Fleming knows very well that this is the law. That does not excuse him in the slightest degree for the statements he has made in contempt of Court.

As for this Court being a party to this action, it is absolutely preposterous and impossible to connect any possible connection with this charge brought by Mr. Fessenden with the Court. The suggestion that there is a conspiracy formed by practically every member of the bar connected with the Court and every member of the Court's staff, shows the position Mr. Fleming finds himself in and the reason he wishes to have some change made. Everybody who is interested or has an interest in this prosecution is against him and an enemy of his.

Now, with regard to contempt, if that affidavit were allowed, the power that this Court has in the exercising of its authority would be almost nullified. Any person charged with crime could file similar affidavits, could not be tried in this Court and could not be tried anywhere else.

As to contempt, Philippine Reports, in re, Amzi B. Kelly, an American lawyer, when brought before the Court, said, "You can't try me. This contempt was committed before you and you are biased." They did try him and sent him to jail for six months and fined him a thousand pesos, I think.

Mr. Rodger read the ruling in this case.

Mr. Fleming.—That is a libel case, is it?

Mr. Rodger.—No; contempt of Court as a result of a libel case. He was sentenced to six months and fined a thousand pesos. There is a case where he said the judge could not try him.

THE JUDGE'S DECISION

The Court: I am quite familiar with Sections 20 and 21 of the Federal Judicial code and the construction put upon it by Mr. Justice McKenna in the case cited. Those sections are specifically applicable to District Courts in the United States where the judges are interchangeable by the orders of Chief Justice upon the application of the Attorney General. No such arrangement is possible in this jurisdiction as defendant well knows.

I recall at this moment a conversation with the defendant, about a year ago, when I suggested to him that a certain Federal Judge in the United States, whom I knew, was anxious to make a temporary exchange of dockets, that he desired to come here for a short time and desired me to take his docket. Defendant replied, "Of course, that would take an Act of Congress." And that is quite right. * * * * There is no provisions for the interchange of judges between this and other courts; there is no way by which another judge could come here and exercise judicial functions unless he were appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate. The defendant is well aware of this. He is also aware that the Acts of Congress and the laws of the United States are not in force in this jurisdiction unless they are applicable and suitable, and a statute which calls for a condition which is impossible in this jurisdiction is manifestly inapplicable and unsuitable.

WOULD BE DESIRABLE

Now, it certainly would relieve the court of embarrassment, and in my judgment it would be a desirable thing if Sections 20 and 21 were actually extended to this jurisdiction, with the necessary machinery for carrying them out, so that some other judge might be allowed to hold a term in this court. I myself would very much like it; but unfortunately that is not the case. The defendant is well aware of this situation nevertheless he files this affidavit.

Now, let us consider what the effect of sustaining such a motion would be. As he claims he is not responsible for the existence of the law, but he is amenable to law. When he takes action under a law which he knows is inapplicable and attempts to invoke it he cannot avoid the consequences. If this were applicable in the present case there is not a case which could arise in the United States Court for China in which one party or the other might not say "I object to the Judge. Let this case proceed no further." And in a few months time we would have hundreds of cases which could not be tried because somebody would say the judge is disqualified and would not want the judge to try him.

"SITUATION IMPOSSIBLE"

And in this particular case here comes a member of the Bar, without any suggestion from me or to me, who says that in a document signed by the defendant, the defendant has libelled him and circulated statements about him which were intended to bring him into public contempt and hatred, and he demands redress from this Court.

If an accused files any affidavit which he knows is not authorised by any law which is applicable in this jurisdiction, and obtains immunity from any and all consequences of what he may have done, then the injured party has no redress. Such a situation is impossible, could not be possible; it is not the law, and the defendant is well aware of it.

Now, as to the affidavit itself, it is well settled that the filing of a scandalous affidavit, reflecting upon the integrity of the Court, constitutes direct contempt. That has been announced in the Supreme Court of the United States.

Judge Lobingier here read excerpts from a decision in re. Terry 128 U.S. 283. In that case Terry filed an affidavit which was much less offensive and was sent to prison for six months. In a case decided by Judge Morrow, Senior of the Court of Appeals, an attorney in addressing the jury made certain remarks not reflecting upon the judge in any way but upon the jury only. He was punished summarily.

QUOTES MANY CASES

There are numerous other cases in the Federal Courts of similar character.

Turning now to State Decisions, Lamberson v. Superior Court 151 in California, 1907, Lamberson filed an affidavit, or rather had his client file it, reflecting upon the integrity of the judge, who thereupon called him before the court and gave him an opportunity to state why he should not be adjudged guilty of contempt, and then committed him.

The Supreme Court of California affirmed the ruling and this likewise was an application for change of venue. In this case the civil code of California distinctly provides for change of venue, something which our law here does not provide for.

That affidavit it will be seen is not so strong, and certainly not so specific as the affidavit in this case.

So far as the law is concerned, the law quoted by the defendant applies solely to the question of change of venue. No law can be found to justify such an affidavit to be read in court. If such statements as that can be made in judicial proceedings, it would be necessary for the court to close its doors, and there is only one way in which such conduct could be met and that is pointed out in the decisions which I have cited.

Now, as to the statements in the affidavit itself, many of them do not relate to the question of change of venue at all. Many of them relate to other persons not in any way involved in the question of change of venue. So far as the statements relating to myself, they are absolutely false—a product of a diseased imagination.

Such is the statement that I am his greatest enemy. Up until six months ago, he had no better friend than I and he never gave me the slightest intimation that he thought he had a grievance against me.

Until the disposition of the Boulon case, there was never any-

Health And Hospitals In Far Eastern Republic Are Not So Bad—Considering

Supplies Lacking But Doctors Struggle Bravely On Taking Pay In Food Under Soviet Mobilisation

BY DR. A. E. ZUCKER
(Union Medical College, Peking, who is spending his vacation in Siberia for The China Press)

Chita, July 13.—In regard to health and hospitals the situation in the Far Eastern Republic is not so bad as one would expect. This is due to a series of fortunate circumstances, rather than to the efforts of the government. In the first place, the climate is a very healthy one with severe frosts in the winter and very hot and continuous sunshine in the summer; the country is not over-populated, there are rivers that carry off the filth especially during the heavy summer rains and there are also many virgin forests; and, at least up to the present, there has been barely enough food for the necessary variety.

As a consequence there are no epidemics at all, no plague, no small-pox, typhus in very limited measure, and cholera is quite rare. As far as hospitals are concerned, they exist in sufficient number and, thanks to the American Red Cross, they are still fairly well stocked with drugs, instruments, and to a diminishing degree, with cotton, gauze, and other material for surgical dressings. The Ministry of Health is likewise making some small purchases of drugs at present, so that the Minister is in a position to say that his serious problems are only sanitation and the fight against venereal diseases which are very wide-spread at present due to the many wars that have swept over this country.

As to sanitation, the Minister confessed that he could do but little, since he had very little money. His department receives about 100,000 roubles monthly. Of this amount he spends about 50,000 roubles on the purchasing of drugs and other supplies, 25,000 roubles in an effort to develop the chemical industry a bit (at present preparations for exporting mineral waters), 10,000 roubles are allotted among the 80 hospital and 800 out-patient stations of the republic (one large hospital, for example, receive 33 roubles a month for incidentals for the 300 beds it contains), and out of the remainder he tries to pay five to ten roubles every few months to his 13,000 doctors, nurses, assistants, and janitors. Truly a pitiful budget! However, it must be taken in consideration that all doctors and other employes work for nothing but their food, and that the Ministry of Food Supplies feeds all the patients.

As to the matter of venereal diseases the Minister takes an attitude that surprised me very much. With all the talk on the part of Russian reformers of science, disbelief in God and the conventional morality, modern views, and once more cold science, one would be inclined to think that they would attack this social evil ruthlessly without being the least bit squeamist. But they do not—I think because it would come under the head of interference with personal liberty, the pursuit of happiness. Perhaps, too, it is the Russian of it, that they do not consider the matter of sufficient importance, though I am inclined to believe that their attitude at bottom is due to an anarchistic strain that resents government interference in private matters.

The minister told me of Draconic measures they had taken when a few sporadic cases of the plague appeared near the Mongolian border—they put a cordon of soldiers around the infected settlement and shot at sight anyone who tried to leave the place. But in regard to the question of these other infectious diseases, he acknowledged that there was prostitution, but that there was no regulation, registration, or inspection whatever. When asked what they were doing about it, he said that they had imported large quantities of Salvarsan from Japan and that they were treating the cases at hospitals. Nothing more, not even any education along these lines, as far as I was able to learn.

As his aim and ideal the minister then laid down three points: (1) Free medical attention and free med'cine for all, (2) Health propaganda, and (3) the doctors should be under the direction of a minister who is himself a doctor and who will know how to secure the proper respect for a doctor's orders. In regard to this latter point he told me that some General or other in charge of the Chinese Eastern Railway had been told by his doctors that there was plague and that the road would have to suspend traffic for a while in order to avoid spreading the plague widely. The General thereupon gave the order that the plague had ceased and that the railroad was going to continue business as usual.

I believe they are carrying out this point of allowing the doctor to be supreme in his own sphere, for I saw an official and a communist (a class for whom many roads are smoothed here) in a hospital arguing hotly against the doctor who quietly but firmly forbade him to remove his wife from the hospital before the attending physician had given the permission. And the doctor carried his point. Another good point about the same hospital, the military hospital, is that at present it will take in civil patients—a thing formerly utterly beneath the dignity of the army. There is an amount of democratisation in all departments, the full extent of which can be appreciated only by someone who has known the Russian official before the revolution.

The doctors, the minister informed me, are all mobilised, but in their free time they are allowed to follow their private practice. Office workers for the government put in six hours a day, laborers eight. The doctors, like everybody else in this country, get pay only very rarely and in very small amounts, say ten gold roubles in four months. All they get is 45 pounds of flour, 7½ pounds of meat, and a few other similar items each month. Their families are fed in the districts where they happen to live by the Ministry of Food Supplies. If a woman, married or single, has had a nurse's training course, she is likewise mobilised and works six hours a day in a hospital.

The government is supplying homes for children whose mothers go to work. I have visited one of these, also under the Department of Health, where mothers bring their children at nine and call for them again at three or later in the afternoon. This children's home had been formerly the house of a bishop and the whole institution made a very good impression. The nurses kept the children clean and busy at games, paper cutting, clay modeling, gardening, or what not. The only criticism would be that there are not a sufficient number of such institutions for the needs of working women. It goes without saying that the doctors suffer greatly under their very much reduced standard of living, just as everybody else does, but for a laborer the standard is lowered less than for a professional man.

Drugs have been declared a government monopoly, the minister informed me, because in the first place there should be no speculation in these goods which concern so directly the health of people, and secondly, because the government wished only the very best drugs to be on the market and all adulteration of medicines should be prevented. Therefore all drug stores were taken over by the government. A tribunal was now considering the valuation of the properties of former druggists, and in the course of a few years they would be paid with interest.

"So you confiscated all drug stores?" I asked.

"Not confiscation," said the minister, "the legal term is sequestration."

As a consequence of this "sequestration" a working-man now gets his drugs gratis. There are twenty five kinds of simple remedies which are given on presentation of a worker's card. Of course, the quantities given away are small, say three tablets of aspirin, a dose of a purgative, etc. In Chita a bourgeois pays, but in the villages all drugs are free.

The chief needs at present, according to the minister, are that the doctors in the country are too few in number, that they have no facilities at all for medical education, and that they have no medical literature.

After my interview with the minister I visited four of the eight hospitals in Chita. The military hospital consists of a group of unpainted frame buildings irregularly scattered about a slope on the outskirts of the city. The first building we entered was just being white-washed and hence all rooms were in great disorder and there were no patients here. The hospital was far from crowded at present, a condition I found in the other hospitals likewise. The hospital has 300 beds but at present only about 80 patients.

The head doctor is a Pole who has been in the war since 1914 and would like to return to Poland now, but he has not the means. He takes great interest in his hospital and he works hard, but he suffers very much from the general poverty which makes it impossible for him to do things as he feels they ought to be done. It is also very difficult, he said, to force his subordinates to work when they receive no pay and not the best of food—this is the experience of the chiefs in all departments, they pity their workers while they realise that the only hope lies in carrying on.

Each patient receives daily 2 pounds of bread, ½ pound of meat, ½ pound of vegetables, and, if it has been prescribed by the doctor, ½ liter of milk. For purchasing milk and other incidentals the hospital receives 33 roubles a month. Milk costs here about 25 kopeks a quart and eggs 3 kopeks a piece—a kopek equals about ½ cent of American money.

There are thirty typhus patients in the isolation ward and an equal nuber of venereal cases. Most beds are unused and covered with rough blankets—sheets are few and spreads don't exist at all. Nor are there window screens—I was told that you find them very rarely anywhere in Russia, and it was pitiful to see the patients trying to rest with the sheet pulled up over their heads as a protection against flies.

The kitchen was quite clean, except for flies, who, the doctor remarked, are also hungry. I must get used to see them in Russia. An apparatus for disinfecting the clothes which the patients bring to the hospital was in operation, and all patients were wearing hospital clothes. I saw the store room for bedding, clothes, dishes, etc., and I found it rather meagre, though the supply suffices for the moment yet in a short time it must be entirely exhausted, because it cannot be replenished on 33 roubles a month.

There are good bath rooms, but there is now very little water because to pipe water in winter would require a steam pipe alongside of every water pipe. Therefore large houses have wells from which water is pumped to a tank in the attic—but in many institutions this apparatus is out of order now. The toilets were filthy—they are everywhere in Russia I have been told and because of what I've seen I'm inclined to believe it.

The laboratory—the only one in the city—was a neat room with an intelligent doctor and his assistant at work on some tests. I learned that they are unable now to make Wassermann tests, because they have no money to buy guinea pigs or rabbits. They likewise cannot get alcohol, and the doctor pointed out that he cannot prepare his cultures, because he has no kerosine to heat his burner. He seemed to be a terribly discouraged man, and I didn't stop to argue when he complained that kerosine was in the hands of an American monopoly.

In other hospitals the conditions were very similar. The Red Cross Hospital is the best equipped of all, it still has large supplies on hand of most of the things needed in hospital work. It has 45 beds and 45 employes, while the City Hospital has 200 beds and 50 employes. In the former hospital the patients are required to pay three roubles per day, while the latter is free. There is everywhere a surprisingly small number of patients; in the Children's Hospital which I visited last only six in the thirty beds provided. This latter institution was started by this government, care of children is characteristic of the government of the Far Eastern Republic.

While the hospitals are struggling along and meeting the demands of the day, yet very soon they will have to become useless, because everything is rapidly running down and the government is unable to make none but the most necessary repairs and replacements. It is all part and parcel of the general economic situation.

One doctor when I asked what they needed most replied, "Send us bread!" And, although at present there are no infectious diseases to any large extent, yet it must be expected that before long the under nourished population will fall victim to some ravaging disease or other, and, if no aid is extended to this new republic from abroad, the misery of the last years will continue in increased measure, because even fairly well equipped hospitals cannot cope with a disease infesting an undernourished nation.

Investigates Charges Of Illegal Entry Of Japanese to Australia

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, July 28.—The Hon. A. Poynton, Minister of External Affairs, has personally inquired into the allegations that Japanese are being smuggled into Australia in defiance of the immigration laws and has satisfied himself that the reports are generally baseless, although there may be isolated cases in which the immigration laws have been evaded. If the illegal entry of Japanese is proved, he will order their deportation.

Mixed Court Jottings

An inquest was held yesterday by Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Yui over the body of an unknown Chinese, about 30 years of age, who was knocked down and killed by a motor car on Nanking Road Wednesday evening. Testimony tended to show that the man stepped from behind a tram car into the path of the motor, became confused and dodged into it though the driver swerved in an attempt to avert a collision. A recommendation was made that the owner of the car pay the funeral expenses of the deceased.

A Chinese doctor arrested by the Chapei police, who found him in possession of paraphernalia for the making of counterfeit 10 and 20-cent pieces, was before the Mixed Court yesterday, the case being adjourned to allow further investigation.

For having participated in burglaries of foreign houses at 139 Range Road and 7 Carter Road a Chinese was sentenced to a year's imprisonment. Two others had previously received similar sentences in connection with the same robberies.

Thirty-two cases were dealt with by the special Traffic Court yesterday, fines being assessed in twenty-eight instances, two defendants being dismissed, one forfeiting bail and one being imprisoned. The latter, a mafoo, was sent to jail for a month for driving recklessly on Honan Road and running into a ricsha, the puller and occupant of which were injured.

LOUVAIN LIBRARY TAKES NEW FORM IN RENAISSANCE

American Ideal To Replace Beautiful Flemish One Germans Burned

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 27.—Ex-President Poincare and Marshal Petain left Paris today for Louvain, where they will take part in the celebrations in connection with the laying of the foundation stone of the new library.

The cornerstone of the new Louvain University Library, which is being constructed upon plans by Mr. Whitney Warren, a New York architect, will be laid by an American, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University.

The rebuilding of the famous library, burned and sacked by the German army in 1914, is being financed at a cost of $500,000 by popular contributions, through a Committee which includes President Butler, Presidents Lowell of Harvard and Hibbon of Princeton University, Mr. J. P. Morgan, Bishop William T. Manning, Mr. Elihu Root, Mr. Charles W. Eliot and many other prominent Americans.

The ceremonies of the laying of the cornerstone will be attended by Cardinal Mercier, and men famous in the field of Philosophy, Science and Letters, as well as representatives of the committee of twenty-nine nationalities which undertook a short time after their destruction to restore the magnificent university buildings.

The new library will occupy a different site from the original structure and will not be a copy of the splendid Flemish building that was destroyed. Such a restoration, committee members said, would have involved too large an expenditure of money and effort in the copying of the delicate details of the library that was sacked.

Of the plans, Cardinal Mercier wrote to Dr. Butler that: "They were wonderfully appropriate, beautiful, ample, not too elaborate and in perfect keeping with the national and historic spot where America's memorial is to be erected."

UNVEIL MONOLITH TO DOVER PATROL

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 27.—An impressive ceremony took place today at Leathercotes Point, Dover, overlooking the seas which were so splendidly guarded by the Dover Patrol.

The Prince of Wales, who was manifestly moved, unveiled a granite monolith to the memory of the men of the Dover Patrol, which is similar to others which are to be erected in France and America. His Royal Highness paid a generous tribute to the patrol's service and sacrifice. He called out from the guard of honor, and inspected the men who served in the patrol, and various other ex-service men.

The Prince later proceeded to Walmer, Folkestone and Aylesford, and was everwhere enthusiastically greeted.

Wireless Chain To Be Put Through By British Dominions

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 28.—The Daily News states that the Imperial Conference has decided to proceed with the scheme for an Imperial wireless chain. In addition to the stations already built at Oxford and in Egypt, it is now proposed to erect stations in Canada, Australia, Singapore, Cape Town, East Africa and Karachi. The British Government will contribute £2,000,000 to the scheme.

It is said that the power of the more distant stations will be such that under favorable atmospheric conditions Australia may be able to communicate directly with Great Britain.

British Delegates To Communist Meet Killed In Wreck

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 28.—The Riga correspondent of the Daily Express reports that a special train from Moscow to Riga, conveying foreign Communists returning from the Third International Congress, was wrecked near Kursk. Six delegates, including Mr. Hewlett (England) and Mr. Frimack (Australia), were killed, and many others seriously injured.

The disaster proves, adds the correspondent, to have been due to a loosened rail, and is alleged to be the outcome of an anti-Communist plot. An inquiry is decidedly vague anyway, a hasty marriage in Honolulu or Manila, and a final scene on another deck which includes the distant strumming of a ukulele and further remarks about the Southern Cross concluding with a gasping statement: "Oh, Dick, isn't it wonderful to think—that all our life will be like this?"

POOR FOREIGN GIRLS

The second type of story, which touches China more directly and which appears in magazines with pictures of a murder on the cover, represents the great national industry as being the kidnapping of foreign young women, preferably blondes. The Chinese in the story is fat, and bland, with eyes as unwinking as an idol's, and a habit of rubbing his hands together with many bows. One is safe in assuming that a few pages farther on he will steal the heroine through the assistance of a houseboy in the hotel or by connivance with her chair-bearers, to hold her prisoner in a low, dark, smoky room until she reveals the whereabouts of the great black pearl.

Just as her keepers are preparing to torture her, however, the hero bursts in accompanied by a brace of naval officers if he isn't one himself and the Chinese goes to the Mixed Court to get six months for disturbing the peace. If one asked the average American of common-school education to give his idea of the Chinese, he would undoubtedly describe a combination of the fat, bland villain, the tong war hatchet man of the San Francisco police records, and the habitue of an opium den.

This impression, which prevails sometimes even among people of higher education, is responsible for many a fit of hysterics on the part of parents whose young hopefuls are leaving for the Orient. About the ingennous Chinese peasant with his eternal willingness to see a joke, the progressive Chinese who are trying out the single tax and appointing women on election boards, and the old-fashion- [illegible] gentlemen whose manners would make Lord Chesterfield seem crude, the average person at home knows nothing whatever.

THAT TERRIBLE MOVIE

This impression was greatly assisted by a moving-picture made in the Orient, which showed the usual blond heroine writhing in and out of Chinese clothes, captured by pirates on the Whangpoo near the Astor House, who, strangely enough, wore the uniform of the local police; and being chased madly about the Summer Palace at Peking by an assortment of Chinese villains who were evidently afraid that she had planned to scuttle the Marble Boat.

During the showing of this picture at a local theater, the Chinese came in large numbers and laughed at the foreigners' conception of Oriental life until they were almost too weak to go home.

In America, however, the picture was doubtless accepted with wide-eyed credulity, causing little Minnie, who stenotypes on Darkest Kiukiang Road, to receive many a letter warning her to be careful when she goes out on the streets, and for goodness sake to come home from that terrible country as soon as possible.

The third type of story involves no kidnapping and few opium dens. It usually purports to be a tale of Chinese life, realistically told, and often includes no foreign characters. It is the kind of story in which the characters always address each other as "Little Moon-Daughter of the Seventh Pomegranate Seed", or "Son of the Spiked Iris by the Willow Pool." It is written along an extremely lofty vein, with many references to the City of the Great Righteousness and Eternal Longevity, the great yellow lilies floating on the crystal clear waters of the pool in the courtyard, and Chinese maidens with skin like the first glow of the blossoming peach. It usually ends with an artistic suicide or two, the thin note of a flute across the lotus pond shivering up to the moon like the soul of the dying Maiden of a Thousand Virtues. You know the type.

As we said before, someday when the heavy reportorial work incident to the Day of Judgment is over, we are going to leave our place in the press-box, retire to a quiet corner of the celestial regions, and write a few short stories with a Chinese background that is truly realistic. But we won't have time any earlier, and the probability is that even then we will find a comfortable place on the battlements, seize upon a stray cloud for a sunshade, and drift off into a more or less pleasant dream.

PELLAGRA NOT SO BAD AS REPORT SAYS RED CROSS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 27.—The public health and Red Cross officials of eight Southern States have replied to President Harding's request that they should ascertain how the Government could relieve the situation in the southern cotton belt arising from the epidemic of pellagra.

They state that the serious situation depicted does not really exist, and though they admit an increase in pellagra in South Carolina and Mississippi, they say there is no semi-famine, while the epidemic of pellagra in the other States has decreased or is stationary.

ASKS CONGRESS TO BUY HALF BILLION IN BONDS

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 27.—In a special message to Congress, President Harding asked for an extension of the authority of the War Finance Corporation to purchase securities, probably up to $500,000,000 which are now in the hands of the railroad administration, in order that the proceeds may be used for the purpose of arranging settlements with the railways.

The President said that this would not mean any additional Government liability or burden on taxation, but merely the utilisation of a Government agency to use available funds to purchase securities for which Congress had already authorised the issue, in order to turn them into channels of finance which were ready to float them.

SHANGHAI MEN HITTING HARD, WITH TEAM BATTING FOR .276; MALONEY IS BIG MAN OF NINE

Dozen Players Clouting .300 Or Better; Roeser Leading With .481 Mark; Maloney, Makes 25 Hits In 61 Times At Bat; Crow In Slump

In spite of the big slump into which Shanghai batsmen fell shortly after the real opening of the present baseball season, an even dozen of Capt. Cy Wilholt's players are hitting the old ball at .300 or better, and the 25 men considered in the averages show a club batting average of .276, as compared with an average of .212 for all opponents.

Shanghai ended its practice season on May 18 with a team average of 327. Eleven men at that time were within the .300 circle, and a twelfth was crowding close with an average of .294. The team average of all opponents up to that time was but 204.

The leaders in the batting of today are practically the same as those of two months ago. Only Hoag and Crow have fallen any appreciable distance down the ladder of averages.

The former on May 18 was hitting the ball at an even 400 clip, while Crow was close up with 363. Today these men are batting for averages of 205 and 244 respectively.

MALONEY REAL LEADER

Roeser who leads the club in the present averages had no place in the previous summary. He had not come out for the spring training. In the dozen games in which he has participated he has piled up an average of 481. Sperry, who played in but eight games, and now comes out only intermittently, has a high total of 476. Mal Maloney, who lead in the spring averages at 381 percent is the real slugger of today, for with 19 games behind him he must be considered as more of a "regular" than either Roeser or Sperry.

Hendrickson's hitting in the seven games in which he has participated showed an average of 391. It was known that the junior third sacker was meeting the ball regularly, though it was not expected that he ranked so high.

Bills got his average of 367 in 27 games. He played more regularly than any other man in the club. Shanghai has engaged in but 28 contests. Bills missed but one.

The averages, for batting only, include only those players who are at present active in baseball. They cover the whole baseball season, including the practice games of early spring upon which the previous percentages were based.

BAER SAYS "BUGS" BAER:

LIKE A SONG WITHOUT WORDS

This Battle Was A Fight Without Blows—Champion Is Crowned Again

BY "BUGS" BAER

Cheap Sir—My man slammed your man back into the First Reader. Why do you eradicate the defeat of Gink Fowler by the Swampoodle Cyclone at Manayunk during the Buggy Builders' Convention in August, 1899? I'm not sure of the year. But I know it was August because my grandpop walked down Ridge avenue in the first suit of pajamas that were ever seen on any American boulevard. Manayunk was the pioneer in all great inventions. Scientists could find any kind of germ in the Manayunk Canal. We gave the round haircut to posterity. But the Swampoodle Cyclone was our trump. He knocked Gink out so long that mortification set in and the referee raised a full beard counting over him. The Cyclone is now a lather clerk in a wholesale barber shop in Wissahickon.

Yours, with very little respect,
WALTER C. KELLY.

Like the Eternal City of Rome it was Manayunk's proud boast that it was built on seven hills. And six of those were in the ring where Gink and the Cyclone battled for the Odds and Ends champion ship of anything that was laying around loose. We cannot dispute Mr. Kelly's word any further than to call his attention to the fact that Cyclone was not called Cyclone because of his destroying ability, but because he was all wind, all blow, all bluster.

THE VIRGINIA JUDGE IN CYCLONE'S CORNER

Mr. Kelly is known to millions as the Virginia Judge. On this occasion he held the watch in Cyclone's corner. Frank Whalen was referee. It was a very formal panic. Cyclone started out by striking Gink a ridiculous punch in the nose. Gink led with a left which Cy trumped with a right. Then Cy swung one from the linoleum that was aimed to make Gink pick the feathers out of his angel wings. It was the old story of a boy on a man's errand.

As a drawing card, Gink's name was a fireside word in America. That meant when he was scheduled to fight all the fans stayed by their own firesides. When he was interlocutor with Primrose and Dockstader's minstrels he crashed The Glutt so hard that The Glutt became famous for being the first acrobat to toss a flipflop over seven elephants and three sunsets.

FIGHT SHORTER THAN A CLAM'S TEETH

The fight with the Cyclone was shorter than a clam's teeth. When the Cyclone swung that left it reminded us of the time that Gink's grandpop got the job as demonstrator in a burglar alarm factory. The old man had a face that would make a watchdog bark and bite. He didn't see the fight at Manayunk, but he said afterward that if his old man hadn't died in Yuma, Arizona, there would have been nothing to it. The old man was a professional wire and rope walker. But one day, out in Yuma, he tried to balance himself on a rope by his neck. He never answered a meal check after that.

While Mr. Kelly is undoubtedly right in his mistaken idea of Cyclone's ability, there can be no illusions about Gink Fowler's claim to the championship of Roughtown.

A greater fighter never lived. He would have been a born leader in any orchestra of tin cans.

The following is the official result of the match between the Shanghai Rifle Association and the City Rifle Club of London, ten men aside, which was held on Saturday, May 21, according to a letter received by Mr. A. M. Collaco from Mr. J. J. Steward, Secretary of the City Rifle Club.

Mr. Steward stated that the weather conditions were "Fine with sunshine and cloud and consequently changing lights. The wind was moderate from the left rear and of the fish tail order, which those who know Bisley will understand is rather a difficult type to counteract. One of their men had a nickel trouble and Mr. Steward himself struck two dud cartridges one of which failed to reach the target."

The trophies for the winning team will be forwarded in the course of a mail and Mr. Steward said he wished that he had the opportunity of presenting them in person. He further congratulated Shanghai on beating them so handsomely and at the same time he regretted that the contest had not a closer finish.

Dairen Ball Club May Come To Shanghai; Hong Team Men Start Practice

The Hong Baseball League which has been brought into public baseball discussion again by the formation of the Socony Baseball Club, of the Standard Oil Company, promises at least one game for the season of 1921. The Anderson Meyer Hong had candidates for their team out at the Race Course yesterday afternoon in preliminary workout for a game with the Socony men on Monday afternoon.

Mal Maloney, who is one of the Anderson Meyer staff worked with the new hong team. He hopes to whip them into some kind of a team for Monday's game. The Socony Club is practicing at Pootung.

There is a possibility now that, in view of the inability of the Osaka Diamond team to extend its vacation tour from Dairen to Shanghai for a series of games, a team from Dairen, composed of several former Keiji and Waseda university players may be arranged for. The management of the Shanghai club is in communication with the Dairen club now for this series.

Shanghai ball players commencing Monday will turn out every evening for a week's workout in anticipation of the approaching series with the fast Ninth Cavalry team which is due here for a six game series beginning on August 9. The lineup which will represent Shanghai against the Cavalry is as yet unlecided upon. Capt. Wilhoit wants every man to work through the week's practice with the feeling that each has a chance to make the Shanghai team.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4, and again on Sunday Shanghai will meet the team off the gunboat Wilmington. The games should furnish interesting baseball, for on the one occasion these teams have met the play was clean and fast and close. The Wilmington has the best little boat's team that has been seen here this season. It could even beat some of the larger boats' teams that have opposed Shanghai this year.

The Wilmington nine last Saturday touched Dennison up for ten healthy safeties. Only perfect support saved the Standard Oil twirler from having more than two runs counted against him. The Navy men played a little ragged in two spots and allowed a score of 7 to pile up against them. The twirling of Fricke and Lance was strong and effective. The team should be ready for a tight game tomorow.

CRICKET CLUB BEATS NAVY 167-102; AUSTRALIANS IN FLYING START AGAINST ESSEX

S.C.C. Eleven Wins Match Against Navy; Perrin Hurt In Southend Match; Essex Scores 128 With Australians Making 192 For Two Wickets

A very enjoyable evening match against a Navy side was started on Wednesday evening and concluded last night, the S.C.C. XI being the victors.

Batting in an appallingly bad light the Navy collected 102 runs, Hamnett being top scorer with a patient 43, Carter with a hurricane 25 being the only other batsman to get double figures.

Lack of practice manifested itself right from the start, when Lees got out to a catch in the slips off Dutholt, having only 9 to his credit. Batting in good style, he was worth more and it was a pity he had to go.

Carstake, after hitting a four put one up to Roberts, Johnston bowled before he had scored by a beautiful swerving ball from Roberts, West caught and bowled and Corbett run out created rather a procession until Carter came in, and with forceful if unorthodox cricket collected 25, including a "juicy" six over Langley's head.

Hamnett's 43 was a very steady innings and invaluable to his side for when he was out, caught by Langley, the remainder could do but little.

NAVY MEN UNLUCKY

The Navy were unlucky, for the overcast sky and bumpy wicket coupled with a lack of practice made batting conditions very unfavorable. Roberts bowled well taking 4 for 8, Monk with 3 for 24 coming next. Clifford changing his bowling frequently giving six men the ball.

Resuming last night with 102 against them, the Club sent in Campbell and Langley to face the attack of Lees and Johnston. Lees, taking a long run and bowling left-hand round, was bumping them down with some success and Carstake behind the "sticks" had an unenviable position to fill, which he did well as befits an N. O.

Campbell retired early when about 80 was on the board, most of his runs coming from Langley who collected 26 in good style. Roberts put up a catch to Hamnett when he had got 8, and Brook stopped a straight one from Johnston with his leg and had to go and it was left to Monk with 49, Simpson with 44 not out and Dutholt with 24 to get the runs, Harder following Brook's example before he had scored. Monk included two sixes in his score, the runs coming quickly on account of the small boundaries. Simpson's 44 not out was a very useful innings, though he is a little cramped in his style.

The match finished when Dutholt was bowled for 24, the two left-handers having made a good stand. The bowling was evenly divided, Lees with 3 for 27 showing the best analysis, Johnston's 3 for 31 running him close.

The score:

AUSSIES SCORE EASILY

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 27.—A match between the Australians and Essex opened at Southend today in fine weather. The attendance numbered some 5,000 spectators, and the wicket was hard and fast.

As J. W. H. T. Douglas was not playing, P. Perrin captained the Essex team. A fast bumping ball from Gregory hit Perrin under the heart, necessitating his being carried off the field and placed under medical attention. Later, he pluckily resumed his innings and scored 28, not out. The Rev. F. H. Gillingham, with 31, was the highest scorer. The innings closed for 128. Gregory took five wickets for 44, and Mailey four for 48.

On the Australians going in they scored easily, W. Bardsley making 59 (including eight fours) and H. L. Collins 101, not out. The total stood at 192 for two wickets when stumps were drawn for the day.

CAVALRY BEATS TIENTSIN STARS IN RAGGED GAME

Canfield And Miller Given Poor Support By Their Teammates; Score 8-4

The Ninth Cavalry baseball nine came back in their game Monday with the Tientsin All Star aggregation, after their defeat by the Infantry the previous day. The Manila boys trimmed the Stars by a score of 8-4.

The game, according to the Tientsin scorer was featured by five errors and seven hits for either team. Much credit was given Canfield for his work in the box for the All Stars, while Miller was mentioned for his steadiness in the pinches. The game was slow, and not up to the standard of either of the two teams.

Two Ball Players And Zork Acquitted; Levi Cases Dropped

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Chicago, July 27.—Judge Fried today informed the State Attorney that in the baseball trial the verdict of "Not Guilty" would be returned in the cases of Weaver, Felsch and Zork and that unless further evidence were produced the cases against Ben and Louis Levi would be dropped.

The Judge further ruled that the confessions of Cicotte, Williams and Jackson were admissible as evidence but informed the State Attorney that if the defence presented further evidence that the confessions were not made voluntarily he would instruct the jury to disregard them.

The men mentioned above are Buck Weaver, former third baseman of the White Sox; Happy Felsch, center fielder; Carl Zork of St. Louis, and Ben and Louis Levi who were said to have been leaders in the alleged conspiracy.

21 DEMANDS TO FIGURE IN TUMEN BRIDGE MATTER

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 25.—The Japanese Legation has not yet replied to the note from the Waichiaopu asking for the removal of the military bridge thrown across the Tumen River during the Japanese military occupation of that region.

It is expected that the Japanese Legation will point out that the bridge is a great convenience to residents on both sides of the river, and will urge that it should be allowed to remain.

China's protest against the bridge is based on the Treaty of 1909 (Chientao) which provides that communications across the Tumen shall be maintained by ferry, and it is probably that Japan will argue that the treaty in question was superseded by the Manchurian Treaty of 1915, which arose from the Twenty-one Demands. Transportation across the Tumen is not mentioned in the Manchurian Treaty but it has a distinct bearing on the status of Koreans and Japanese in Chientao, and recognition of its supersession of the Chientao Treaty would give to Japanese and Koreans in Chientao the right of residence (in Manchuria outside the railway zone) under the Japanese jurisdiction, whereas the former treaty merely gave Koreans the right to live in Chinese Territory, subject to the laws of China.

Peking, July 25.—The British, American and Japanese Consuls-General at Mukden recently interviewed General Chang Tso-lin and protested against his recent action in holding up the salt revenues.

General Chang's attitude on that occasion was not conciliatory, but the Japanese Legation thinks that he will not maintain his present uncompromising stand. The funds being retained are principally at Changchun and Harbin and amount to about $600,000.

Attorney Fleming Is Sentenced By Judge Lobingier To Serve Six Months In Jail For Contempt Of Court

thing but an expression of cordiality and friendliness. The statement about this Court being his greatest enemy is the product of his disordered imagination.

PRONOUNCES SENTENCE

There is only one thing that remains, and that is the performance of a very disagreeable but imperative duty.

This offense is direct contempt, committed in the face of the Court, deliberately, knowingly, and with premeditation: it was not done in the heat of argument; it was not the result of any strong provocation; it was prepared in advance, apparently days ago; it was brought in here deliberately by one who knows the law, and know that he was violating it.

My duty is plain.

The defendant is adjudged guilty of direct contempt of court, committed within its presence, and he is hereby sentenced to six months of imprisonment, and is now placed in the custody of the Marshal.

Mr. Marshal, you will now adjourn the Court.

Mr. Fleming: In the Consular Court Regulations, which apply here, the limit of sentence is twenty-four hours for contempt.

Court: This is not a Consular Court.

Mr. Fleming: It is a Consular Court. It takes the place of the Consular Court.

The Court: It may take the place, but it is not a Consular Court. You have heard the sentence. You are placed in the hands of the Marshal.

The court, at 10:45 o'clock, a.m., adjourned.

THE OFFICIAL ORDER

The following is the official decision of the Court, filed late yesterday afternoon:

In re Contempt of William S. Fleming.

Cause No. 1442, order filed July 28, 1921.

SYLLABUS

1. Contempt: The Power to punish for contempt is inherent in all Courts of general jurisdiction.

2. Id: The filing and reading in open Court of a scandalous and insulting affidavit reflecting upon the Court and its officials as well as various members of the Bar constitutes direct contempt committed in its presence.

3. Id. Procedure: Such contempt may and should be punished summarily without the filing of a formal complaint or the reception of evidence.

4. Id. Punishment: Any Court of the United States "is empowered to punish contempt by imprisonment at its discretion."

H. D. Rodger, Esq., Special U.S. Attorney, for the Government.

W. S. Fleming, pro se.

Lobingier, J.

On this 28th day of July, 1921, this court, at the opening of its session, directed its clerk to read the information in Cause No. 1421, United States vs. William S. Fleming, the respondent having been committed to this court after a preliminary hearing and being present pursuant to notice. Before the clerk could start to read, the respondent attempted to file a motion and affidavit for a change of venue. On being cautioned he waited until the information had been read and then, without answering the question what his plea was he first filed with the clerk and then read in open court the motion and affidavit referred to, a copy of which is attached to this order.

After the respondent had finished reading the affidavit the Special U. S. Attorney, in charge of the case of United States vs. Fleming called the court's attention to the scandalous character of the affidavit and asked that respondent be punished for contempt. The court then asked the respondent what he had to say in order to show cause why he should not be adjudged guilty of contempt. The respondent, after speaking for a time, stated that he had prepared a brief on the question but had left it at his office and the court waited while respondent's partner went for the brief. From it respondent argued on the question of a change of venue rather than on the question of his contempt, but he was permitted to speak as long as he desired.

We shall not befoul these pages by quoting the offending affidavit. It is a tissue of falsehoods from first to last and its contents are the most scandalous and insulting which we have ever known to have been presented to any court. It is not confined to the question of a change of venue but rambles over other subjects. It recites at its close "that the facts hereinbefore set forth are alleged on information and belief" but it states no ground for any such belief and many of its statements relate to matters of which the respondent could not possibly have any personal knowledge as the events with which they are concerned occurred during his absence from the country as the affidavit shows. He states e.g. several pretended interviews, during his absence, with his partners. Why did not these partners, one of whom sat beside him while he read his affidavit, make a similar one? Respondent repeatedly uses the phrase "I am informed" etc., but he nowhere hints at the name of an informant nor presents any supporting statement sworn or otherwise. To call such a screed "proof" of anything is worse than ridiculous. Of a far less scandalous affidavit "with no attempt to state even the source of that information or origin of that belief" the Supreme Court of California said:

"It may not for one moment be countenanced that, without supporting facts, lawyer or litigant may wantonly charge a judge with corrupt and improper motives, and seek protection from the just consequences of such outrages under the shield of the code provision." (1).

It is well settled that the filing of such an affidavit constitutes direct contempt (2) of court committed in its presence as opposed to merely constructive contempt.

In a famous case (3) a woman litigant during the reading of a judgment adverse to her "asked the presiding justice, 'how much he was paid for his opinion,'" she was summarily adjudged guilty of contempt and imprisoned. And it is not necessary that the imputation be against the judge. Where an attorney in his argument to the jury insinuated that it was prejudiced he was found guilty of direct contempt and forthwith punished accordingly. (4) The affidavit before us maligns nearly every official of this court and various members of the bar as well.

Where an attorney wrote to a Judge that a ruling he had made was "directly contrary to every principle of law governing injunctions, and everybody knows it" (5) he was adjudged guilty of direct contempt and summarily punished.

And it is equally well settled that such contempts may and should be punished summarily. It is not necessary that a formal complaint be filed and evidence taken. As stated by Blackstone in a passage quoted by the Supreme Court of the United States: (6)

"If the contempt be committed in the face of the Court, the offender may be instantly apprehended and imprisoned, at the discretion of the judges, without any further proof or examination."

Respondent invokes the following provision:

"No fine imposed by a consul for a contempt committed in presence of the Court, or for failing to obey a summons from the sums, shall exceed fifty dollars; nor shall the imprisonment exceed twenty-four hours for the same contempt." (7)

But the judge of this Court is not a "consul" and long after that section was enacted Congress passed the Federal Judicial Code which following a section relating to "any Court of the United States" provides:

"The said Courts shall have power to impose and administer all necessary oaths, and to punish, by fine or imprisonment, at the discretion of the Court, contempts of their authority." (8)

It is true that the Act establishing this Court provides that its procedure "shall be in accordance so far as practicable with the existing procedure prescribed for consular courts in China in accordance with the Revised Statutes." (9)

But the Revised Statutes prescribe no procedure for consular Courts or any other as regards the subject of contempt. Besides the degree of publishment which may be imposed for such an offense is a matter not of procedure but of jurisdiction and the jurisdiction of this Court is not limited to that of the consular courts. It includes also that formerly exercised by the Minister who undoubtedly had power to punish for contempt. Indeed it is well established that such power is inherent in all courts of general jurisdiction such as this (10). In several cases (11) where the language used was much less serious than here, sentences of six months' imprisonment were imposed and we cannot think that any less would be appropriate in this case.

Whereas on this 28th day of July, 1921, in open court and in the presence of the Judge thereof, during the session of said court the said William S. Fleming did file and read in the presence of the court a false, insulting, scandalous and contemptuous affidavit;

And whereas the said William S. Fleming thereby was and is guilty of contempt of this Court by misbehavior in its presence;

Now, therefore, it is considered and adjudged that, by reason of the acts and statements aforesaid, the said William S. Fleming was and is guilty of direct contempt of this court and that he be punished for said contempt by imprisonment for six months in the prison for American convicts at Shanghai, China, unless before the expiration thereof he be transferred to some other lawful place of confinement.

By the Court,
CHARLES S. LOBINGIER,
Judge.

are especially subject to worms some of the indications of which are irregular appetite bad breath, grinding of the teeth in sleep, pain and swelling of the abdomen, irritation in the nose. Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, given for a few days, destroy worms, and a marked improvement in appetite and health speedily follows.

As an example of their efficacy in cases of this nature the evidence of Mrs. E. Morrison, Didsbury, North West Canada, is illuminating. She writes:—

"I can strongly recommend Baby's Own Tablets to mothers whose children are troubled with worms. I have never used a better medicine for this trouble. I have also found the Tablets good at teething time."

Babies and young children need special medicine of their own, something prompt yet mild in action, and which can be given without the slightest fear or hesitation. Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, exactly answer this description and are just the right remedy for infantile indigestion, colic, constipation, simple fever, diarrhoea, teething troubles and colds. Obtainable from chemists, also post free at 60 cents the vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road Shanghai.

RED BEARDS KILL TWO JAPANESE IN WRECK OF TRAIN

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, July 28.—On Tuesday night Partisans and Hunghutze at Manzovka, verst 169 on the Ussuri Railway, blew up a bridge, causing the derailment of the locomotive and several coaches of passenger train No. 4.

The train was then subjected to rifle fire, as the result of which a Japanese colonel and captain were killed.

Bold Hunghutze Terrorise Farm And Timber Men

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 25.—Writing under date of July 14 from Harbin, the Chinese Official Observer says:

"On account of the ever-increasing activities of the Hunghutze along the Eastern section of the Chinese Eastern Railway, which have closed down all work on the timber concessions as well as terrorising the population living in this neighborhood, I undertook a journey to Imanpo and district, to become personally acquainted with the actual state of affairs. Having come to the conclusion that what is taking place at Imanpo and district is exactly similar to what is taking place at other points in this Eastern section, I decided it was not necessary to visit personally the other districts.

"Thanks to the comparatively easy manner in which arms and ammunition have been obtainable, the Hunghutze are more numerous than ever along this Eastern boundary of Kirin Province. In previous reports we have had reason to give details of the supply of arms to the bandits by the Japanese, and in addition to this many former White Russian troops have sold, for a very cheap price, their weapons when their units were disbanded or they ceased to receive pay, in order to buy themselves food.

MANY BANDS

"It is a fact that this year the bands of Hunghutze are split up into smaller groups than has been the rule in past years, and these groups, each with its own leader or leaders, work independently of each other. The size of these groups is from 40 to 200 men, and on account of their comparative smallness they carry on guerilla tactics—that is to say, they are continually moving from place to place and not giving the troops an opportunity to attack them at any one spot.

"This year, in addition to the Hunghutze, there have sprung up a number of foot-pads, or road-agents, working in small groups of four or more. They are really no other than coolies who were formerly working in the forests, but are now out of work, seeing that work has been suspended for two months or more, and forced to make a living in one way or the other.

"As they know the district and exactly where troops are located, they are able carefully to avoid the latter and yet terrorise persons living in sparsely inhabited districts. These foot-pads hold up any one they care to and do not confine their attentions to the rich, for if their victim has nothing to steal they fire his home and strip him.

MANY OUTRAGES

"These road-agents, consisting of small gangs and knowing the neighborhood so well, are able to carry on their occupation much nearer to the main railway line and railway settlements than the regular bandits, and all the recent outrages that have occurred in the Imanpo district close to the railway have been their work. I refer to the burning of a native distillery near Imanpo, the capture of a Russian who was looking after a bee-garden two versts from Imanpo, and the kidnapping of some 70 school-boys at Vichiho by 13 men—all of which has taken place during the last ten days.

"These men are undoubtedly waiting until the poppy-fields become ripe, and will then turn their attention to the opium cultivated in this district.

"All farmers in these hilly parts have their poppy fields on the lands they till. This year the opium crop is likely to be a very poor one, owing to the absence of rainfall when it was essential. It is possible that, knowing that opium will be scarce this year, the bandits are terrorising the country people now, as they can expect to make but little when the harvest actually takes place.

DEMANDS MORE DRASTIC

"The Hunghutze bands, who confine their attentions mostly to the timber concessions, have this year demanded far greater sums from the concessionaires than they have done in former years, and the latter have not seen their way clear to pay such large sums, seeing that they have no guarantee that when one gang has been satisfied and goes away another will not arrive and also demand money. Again, owing to the fact that recently the Fengtien troops who for some time past have been stationed in this district are being withdrawn, and the process of relieving them with fresh troops is a very slow one, the Hunghutze have seized the opportunity to become bolder and more insistent upon their demands being met without delay, carrying out reprisals such as the firing of woodstocks on the concessions.

"Owing to the tactics of the Hunghutze of quickly moving from one point to another, protected all the time by the thick forests and the lack of proper roads, and also to the fact that the timber concessions lie at some considerable distance from the main line and are very extensive, the present number of railway guards, though sufficient for the proper protection of the main line, is insufficient to guard properly the actual concessions and their net-work of branch lines and forks. It stands to reason that as this necessary protection is impossible just now, the various contractors' gangs, who fell trees deep in the forest, are unable to carry on their work, since they have been warned by the bandits that if they attempt to do so they will be fired upon."

RUSSIAN ADMIRAL ROBBED OF MEDALS

Ex-Commander Of Czar's Navy, Incognito A Year, Sails Minus Decorations

New York, June 19.—Among the passengers leaving New York yesterday on the Orduna was Admiral Michael Smirnoff, one-time commander of the Imperial Russian Navy and close personal friend of Admiral Kolchak. It was disclosed that he sailed for Hamburg minus priceless decorations, including the Cross of St. George, Imperial Russia's highest war tribute, and the almost equally coveted Cross of St. Michael and St. George, which were stolen last Thursday from the apartment in 92d Street where he has been living incognito for a year.

Both decorations, Admiral Smirnoff stated, had been bestowed on him by the late Tsar. They were his most cherished possessions. He wore them rarely, keeping them in a strong box. During an absence from his rooms, he said, thieves made off with a quantity of clothing and the decorations.

"I am on my way to Germany," he said. "Just how long I shall stay there is a question, and what I shall do is also to be determined. But I anticipate no trouble in obtaining a drink, and in this I am certain many Americans will envy me.

"It is not my intention to enter Russia, naturally, but I believe the day is not far distant when the real Russian people will realise they are being ruled by a small group which is not Russian at all, and will overthrow Lenin, Trotsky, and the rest. Then I hope to see come to the front some big man to bring Russia back into a condition where the country may again take its place among the great nations of the world. When will that be? I wish I knew."

Admiral Smirnoff was a member of the Navy General Staff of Russia. After the collapse of the old Government he allied himself with Kolchak as a member of his Cabinet, commanding the sea forces. He came to New York with Kolchak in 1918, and went to Siberia with him. But when Kolchak was killed he returned here, revealing his presence in the city to only a few intimate friends.

Included among others who sailed aboard The Orduna were Dr W. John Murray, pastor of the First Church of Divine Science. He will join Mrs. Murray at Muzzan in Northern Italy. Dr. and Mrs. Murray will make a tour of Europe and return late in September. He will continue services, beginning the first Sunday in October in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. More than 200 parishioners were on hand to bid him goodby.

Obregon Is Denied Extra Powers For Fixing Oil Clause

(Reuter's Service)

Mexico City, July 27.—The Chamber has rejected President Obregon's request to grant him extraordinary powers to adjust an article of the constitution nationalising the country's oil deposits, which has long been a stumbling-block in the relations between Mexico and the United States.

The Senate had previously accepted the request.

"La Tosca" Saturday By Russian Opera Co.

"La Tosca," which was sung with such splendid success by the Russian Opera Company Tuesday night, will be repeated at the Lyceum Theater Saturday night by special request. Shanghai loves "La Tosca" above all other operas, and remembers with pleasure the amateur performance of Puccini's favorite composition several years ago.

Miss Mashir will again sing Floria Tosca, and Mr. Busanovsky the part of the painter, Mario Cavaradossi. As the repetition has been requested by many a record house is expected.

"Tales of Hoffman" is scheduled for Wednesday, and "Il Trovatore" for the farewell night, Saturday, August 6. Neither one of these two operas has been presented by the company in Shanghai.

Last night Verdi's "Rigoletto" was delightfully presented to a fair sized house. The colorature singing of Miss Kasanskaia as Gilda was especially appreciated.

Signor A. Carpi, impressario of the company, has just returned from Japan, and announces plans for a season of six weeks there.

Freight Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their freight market report of yesterday:

The situation in our Outward Freight markets is as follows:

TO UNITED KINGDOM AND CONTINENT

The improvement on this berth mentioned in our last issue has been well maintained and there are numerous enquiries for forward bookings mostly for seeds from here and cereals from Hankow but there is not much going forward in the general cargo line.

TO UNITED STATES VIA PACIFIC AND VIA PANAMA AND SUEZ

There is again no change to report on these berths and cargo is even more conspicuous by its absence than it was a fortnight ago.

The Trans-Pacific Lines have reduced the rate on tea temporarily during July and August to Gold $8.00 per ton.

COASTWISE

The coasting trade has been quiet during the interval and there is nothing of any importance to report.

Hankow Market

The British Chamber of Commerce of Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, July 20:

FINANCE AND MONEY MARKET

The London quotations for Bar Silver on the 19th instant are wired as 37⅝d. Ready 36¾d. Forward showing nett advances during the past week of ⅜d. and ¼d. Ready and Forward respectively. In the interval the price has been as high as 37¾d. Ready 37⅛d. Forward, at which the Market remained unchanged from 13th to 16th instant both inclusive. This advance appears to have been due to scarcity of supplies and purchases on Indian account. Our Local Exchange Market has ruled firm for Ready and near delivery, with an easier tendency for Forward. The New York-London cross rate at the close on 19th instant was 359⅝ —a fall of 5¾ points during the past week.

Chinese Market Rates Shanghai Taels 96.875. Local Currency Dollars 69.925. Native Interest 12 percent p.a.

EXPORTS

There is a better tone in the European Seed market, but business is hindered by lack of supplies here. Wood Oil, Hides and Cotton are inactive. Broad Beans and Peas are firm. Some small settlements of Gallnuts are reported for Europe.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods. This market is firm and active, with a good demand for stocks and also for Cloth for forward shipment. Clearances are brisk.

Yarn. The market is firm with an upward tendency.

Coal Market

Messrs. Wheelock and Company write as follows in their coal market report of yesterday:

JAPAN COAL

We have no change to report on our local market since last writing but latest advices from Japan are to the effect that the supplies of dust coal for the remainder of the year have all been sold out and that the demand exceeds the supply, as far as lump coal is concerned—supplies are getting scarce and the market is expected to advance in the near future.

FUSHUN COAL

No change.

FUCHUNG ANTHRACITE COAL

Prices locally are slightly easier.

KAIPING COAL

Deliveries under contract are well up to the average for the time of the year, but the market generally is dull and there is no fresh business to report.

Some Results Of Chang Tso-lin's Failure To Act

THE Note from Mr. Yourin, Foreign Minister of the Chita Government, to Dr. W. W. Yen, published exclusively in THE CHINA PRESS, calling attention to the activities of Russian reactionaries on Chinese soil, is just what might have been expected. After first reciting the causes of complaint against China, the Note goes on to ask certain very definite questions as to China's intentions, and finally makes express declaration that, in the event of China's failure to take definite measures against the unwarranted activities of the reactionaries, the Government of the Far Eastern Republic will be constrained to act on its own account.

The Note has very considerable interest in itself, an interest so obvious that it does not need to be particularised to any who can read the English language and who have even a rudimentary acquaintance with current events in the Far East; but in addition to the intrinsic interest of the Note there are several factors that give it a very high significance, and upon these factors or circumstances we may be permitted to dwell.

It should be noted in the first place that the Note was orginally delivered to Mr Shen, the special delegate of the Waichiaopu to Chita, over a month ago. Since then a great many things have happened, not the least important of which has been the driving back of the Ungern rabble from the frontier of the Far Eastern Republic and subsequently (and undoubtedly a consequence of the earlier events) the occurrence of a revolutionary movement in Mongolia, which movement seems to have succeeded to the extent of being able to set up a new Government, the relations of which to the Hutukhtu are at present unknown.

It is obvious that the crossing of the Russo-Mongolian border by the forces of the Far Eastern Republic has involved an infringement of the territorial rights of China; but it should be kept in mind that such infringement took place only after China had been quite plainly warned that unless she herself did something worth while towards the suppression of Ungern and his hordes the Government of the Far Eastern Republic would have to take matters into its own hands. To quote the note,

"It is the duty of the Government of the Far Eastern Republic to inform the Chinese Government that if the bands of Ungern and Semenoff, which have now come into direct contact with the People's Revolutionary Army, hereafter continue to concentrate in Mongolia, the latter will be compelled for strategic and tactical reasons to pursue and exterminate those bands."

The Chita Government has followed the course indicated in this warning, and this may be taken as indicating that the Chita Government will not only not support Ungern, but also any other measures intimated as possibly necessary.

In the second place, it may be as well to forestall any criticism of the Far Eastern Government's action in this matter by pointing out that for a long time the Mongolian authorities were closely leagued with Ungern, who was actually Minister of War to the Hutukhtu's Government. It has not simply been the case that Ungern was operating independently from a base that happened to be in China. He was for a time operating in conjunction with the Urga authorities. It will be remembered that a few months ago Ungern and Urga were both engaged in an expedition against China, so that the suppression of Ungern is really as much a Chinese as a Chitan interest. Yet China has done nothing; and this absence of activity on the Chinese side doubtless convinced Ungern, who was not however so mad as to leave his rear undefended, that as a matter of fact he had nothing to fear from the rear.

It was doubtless very largely the sense of security enjoyed by Ungern with respect to attack from the Chinese side that encouraged him in his attack on the Far Eastern Republic; and thus Chinese inactivity may be regarded as having contributed materially to Ungern's assurance, and as being indirectly as well as directly responsible for the action taken by the Russian Far Eastern forces in following Ungern's defeated hordes into Mongol territory.

A further point to be noted is this: that the fault lies not with the Central Government but with the militarists. If militarism has any valid excuse it is that military forces are primarily intended to be defensive organisations. Judged by this standard, the militarists of China have failed miserably, and the more exalted their rank the worse their failure. Two months ago Chang Tso-lin forced out of the Central Government three million dollars for an expedition to recover Mongolia for the Republic of China. The money might just as well have been cast into the sea for not a single effective step towards the recovery of Mongolia has been taken, but instead, through the madness of Baron Ungern, and the traitorous indifference of General Chang Tso-lin, China has been humiliated by seeing foreign troops compelled to pursue on to Chinese soil troops that were a menace both to China and her neighbors. It was perhaps unwise to enquire too closely into the reasons for Chang's inactivity, but whatever those reasons may be they are responsible for the fact that the Far Eastern forces had to cross the Mongolian border.

SUNDAY AT BEACH

Papa, mamma, all little popandmommies decide on Sunday at beach. Pop is tired from hard week's strike. Load umbrella full of beach delicatessen. Have argument with conductor over little Frankie, who is eleven years old in school, but can't count past five in street car

Eight little popandmommies crawl into three bathing suits. Everybody starts eating soon as they hit beach. Dinner lasts all day with intermissions for lunch. Pop beautifies beach with hollow sardine cans, loose bottles, empty banana hides.

Phil, Jr., perches out for slow simmer in sun. Gets blisters on his fragile neck bigger than elephant toes. Little Minnie gets lost between two waves and publishes standard recitation for help. Donald is kidnapped by his curious disposition. Follows a Pomeranian, thinking it is a new kind of mutton chop with legs.

Children get scattered like Mexican army. Mom enjoys herself screaming at 'em in ecstasy of motherly affection. Old man eats himself bowlegged, chokes on fishbone while asking mom when next meal starts.

Green beach flies join gay family circle, sting baby, sample chow-chow, snap at pop. A fly always thinks it's his picnic.

Donald wants to loop-the-loop, Gertie wants balloon, Terwilliger wants peanuts. Pop is wiping his chin on back of hand when next meal suddenly starts. Sunday at beach seems to be all meals.

Anything that is spoiled or can't be chewed is left behind on beach as testimonial to happy occasion.

Monday on beach looks like remnant sale on garbage scow. Beach is boulevard of empty milk bottles, esplanade of cracker boxes and triumphant parade of sardine kimonos.

By time guards get beach smoothed and ironed out, it's

HAY FEVER VICTIMS

EDITOR, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: In answer to your correspondent's letter regarding a remedy for "HAY FEVER", I beg that you kindly insert the following reply:

Hay fever as well as any other kind of disease, except fractures of bones, can be cured not only partially but entirely and permanently through the mental vibration, or mind-power principle. All that is necessary is to have the patient sit or lie down in a comfortable condition for about half hour during each treatment, when the healer will undertake to put into a state of polarity the vibration of the cells of the patient. This theory considers the human body to be composed of sentient, conscious electrical cells responsive to the WILL POWER of man. Mental and spiritual healing for bodily ills are now so common in practice that in America and Europe churches of different denominations have been organised to alleviate suffering humanity. In America all practitioners are connected with the different scientific or religious movements. Under the mental-vibration theory the cells are merely intensified in their rate of vibration to effect a cure; in other words, the cells are put in a normal state of vibration, or equilibrium.

In speaking of temperature, we say the temperature is higher or lower because of the vibration of molecules in the surrounding atmosphere. Just as in the case of water, for example, by heating we find that the rate of vibration of water molecules is increased and we say the temperature is high. So in the treatment of disease, the cells of the human body are placed in a state of vibration to lower or intensify their rate by the potency of the mind. To attain a permanent cure, it is necessary that the healer be in tune with the mental or cosmic plane, to have an interchange of psychoplasms, psycheton, or magneton on the physical brain. By putting in a state of polarity all energies of the human body the patient obtains a state of sound health because of the harmonious vibration of the cells.

The "prayer" theory is likewise based upon the same vibratory theory because the mind and heart of the practitioner (in fact his entire being) are united and placed in a state of inner positive vibration so that in the act of deep meditation he identifies his Ego with the Divine. I may cite that New Thought movement which is now international in character, Christian Science, Divine and Spiritual Science, Psychotherapy, Psychometry, Psychology, Occultism, and Theosophy, have substantiated the supremacy of the mind over the body by daily experience. In substance the healing by prayer is to keep consciousness of the healer in close touch with the divine principle in man and this, intensified in the rate of vibration, communes his Ego with the Truth of his being, the Pure Being, the Inner Voice that uttered the following words in the deep silence of man's heart:

"PEACE, BE STILL AND KNOW THAT I AM GOD." If the healer can attain this state of ecstacy or positiveness of mind while operating with the sick, all things that he may ask shall be given unto him, for it is promised by the Christ of old, that "ACCORDING TO THY FAITH BE IT UNTO YOU."

In the case of mental healing, however, it is not necessary that the patient shall have faith in the healer or in the process, because faith shall come to him after the healing is done. True "FAITH" comes to the patient after he has been healed, because a perfect rapport between the healer and the patient has been established. Belief or "Faith" that comes before the healing is done, is known as "BLIND FAITH," because a reasoning mind is supposed not to accept or believe anything which it does not know. The healing thus effected through "BLIND FAITH" is not permanent or lasting, as in the case of hypnotism and animal magnetism.

I.

Under the principle of affinity that "LIKE ATTRACTS LIKE," whatever healing is obtained from ignorance of the law of being, unto ignorance it shall perish, just as much as "ill-gotten wealth never prospers." Therefore the surest remedy for HAY FEVER is mental vibration because the blood corpuscles that carry the poison into the system, are purified by the etheric psychoplasms which pervade the aura of the patient. By the WILL POWER of the healer a sort of electrical discharge from the vital centers of the practitioner is propelled, and the patient receives them as a healing current from the "battery of life." Hense perfect healing is effected.

Thanking you for your courtesy in publishing the foregoing, I beg to remain, sir, Yours very truly,

PSYCHOLOGIST.

DOROTHY DIX ON THE GRILL

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: When Dorothy Dix's article appeared in your paper and I was asked to deny the statements contained therein I simply refused to do a thing that appeared so entirely unnecessary in a country and amongst people where your traveller's information could hardly come under the eyes of one single person incognisant with realities to such an extent as to take the article seriously.

Since then correspondents of various nationalities have contradicted Dorothy Dix's charges of sinjo-ism, oppression of natives and exploitation of the brown men.

To their sincere eloquence I would venture to add a few lines from the Hon. Staniforth Smith's report on The Netherlands East Indies to the Government of the Commonwealth of Australia, representing the unbiassed opinion of a man whom even Dorothy Dix could hardly deny thorough knowledge on the subject:

"I have, during the last nine years, paid three official visits to Java to study its economic conditions, and on each visit I have become more fully confirmed in the conviction that no European nation has employed more scientific methods, or achieved more successful results in the great industries comprised under tropical agriculture than the Hollanders.

"They have, however, not only shown great ability in economic development, but great ability and humanity in governing native and subject races. The first and highest aim of the people of Holland has been to uplift and benefit the millions of natives that are under their charge and control. They have always been prepared to sacrifice revenue and material interests for the true welfare of the natives. They have confirmed the natives in the perpetual possession of the richest and best lands in Java."

I have the honor to be, Sir, Your obedient servant,

Willem Daniels,
Acting Consul-General for the Netherlands.

THE BANQUE INDUSTRIELLE DE CHINE

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: After having read the latest Reuter telegrams, I notice that mention is made of deposits, current accounts and other banking documents but there is absolutely no mention about free deposits, i.e. for instance, government bonds for the liberated regions, national loans, etc., for which we have only provisional receipts.

You will understand that the holders of these receipts desire to be informed as to the date at which they will receive their definite titles of ownership.

This is what is asked by a group of depositors.

Thanking you for the insertion of this letter in your columns, and enclosing my card, I am, Sir, Yours etc.

Mascagni Plans To Conduct 'Marat' In Buenos Ayres

Rome, June 9.—Pietro Mascagni, whose recent opera, "Piccolo Marat," was recently produced at the Constanzi Theater in Rome, is contemplating a tour to South America in order to be present in Buenos Ayres, when the opera is given there.

Whether he will change his mind at the last minute no one, least of all his impresario, Walter Cocchi, can say. Mascagni, in spite of his forty and more years, still plays the role of the spoiled child, which appeals to his friends and admirers. 'L'enfant gate," they call him. When rehearsing the new opera at the Costanzi he raged and fumed when things went wrong, and three times postponed the date of the first performance. This was just what was expected of him, and the Romans good-naturedly waited until the maestro was ready to fix the day. The house had been sold out for weeks, and fabulous prices were paid not only for orchestra seats but also for those of the gallery. Friends who had not been fortunate enough to secure seats were allowed to attend the dress rehearsal, which was all the more amusing on account of Mascagni's violent rages when hitches occurred. Unlike his friend Toscanini, who threw the baton at one of the orchestra last year, he is never impatient with his musicians, but generally with the stage manager. One reason why the maestro was impatient and nervous was due to the fact that the opera was the thirteenth which he had written, and he is superstitious. Great care had been taken with the cast and the costumes. The prima donna was Gilda de Rizza, who sang Isabeau ten years ago.

For years Mascagni had planned to write music depicting the French Revolution and its terrorism, and, though searching for an episode, he had waited over ten years for it. His friends knew of his interest in this period and often discussed various themes with him. About three years ago, when he was at his villa at Antignano, Gioacchini Forzana, the librettist, sketched in words the episode of the shipwreck (Noyades) at Nantes, when the French aristocrats, by order of Governor Carrier, surnamed the Terror, were put into a specially constructed boat and towed to the center of the river. There the boat was sunk and the aristocrats died like rats in a trap. From that evening the composer thought of nothing else. Two years ago Forzana brought him the finished libretto, and for two whole years Mascagni worked on the score.

The story of the "Piccolo Marat" is laid in Nantes, in 1793, during the terrorist rule of Governor Carrier, the "Orco." All the city is under his bloody rule. Among the aristocrats who are doomed to die is the Princess de Fleury, mother of the young Prince, who, in order to save her, has decided to pretend he is a revolutionist. Only a few hours are left in which to rescue his mother and he is wondering how he can manage it, when, on the street by the bridge, he sees a young woman pursued by a crowd. She is Mariella, niece of the Governor, and she is taking to him some delicacies in a basket. The hungry crowd, suspecting that the food is good, attempts to insult her. Fleury rushes to her help, and by a deft trick substitutes for the fine food some sausages and bread which he has in his pocket. The crowd is satisfied, and Mariella insists on bringing her gallant to the room where her uncle is awaiting her. When she tells him the tale he compliments the youth and makes him one of his soldiers, called Maratists. He gives him the title of "Little Marat" and puts him in charge of the prison where his mother is contained. Although she has only a few hours to live her son tells her that he is sure to save her. He steals the paper which sentences her to death. The Governor discovers the theft and blames his niece for it. When left alone Piccolo Marat tells Mariella of his plan for saving his mother, and also of his love for her. The uncle returns drunk and sinks into a chair, while Mariella and her Piccolo Marat are hiding in the corner. They bind the Governor, leaving one hand free. Waking him from his stupor, they force him to sign the paper pardoning Princess Fleury. Her son, rushing out with it, is shot in the shoulder by the Governor. Mariella hastens with the paper, leaving the youth on the floor. The maddened Orco, striving to release himself from the ropes which hold him to the chair, has all but freed himself when the boatman who had been forced to arrange for the death barge in which the unhappy aristocrats were drowned enters and fells him with a bronze candlestick. The safety of mother, son and sweetheart is assured.

Mascagni admits that the opera was composed with a view to pleasing the public of South America, for probably nowhere else, except in Rome, is the maestro so great a favorite. About ten years ago he received an ovation when he went there to direct the performance of "Isabeau." Even his temperamental exhibitions were a source of enjoyment to the Argentines. When he landed at Buenos Ayres and was greeted with enthusiasm, with a band playing the Hymn to the Sun from "Iris," he wept copious tears from sheer joy. The only disappointment felt was that when he had arrived he spent every day at the opera house rehearsing "Isabeau," and no engagement, however pressing, was kept until after the first night. A banquet had then been prepared in his honor. When, after 2 o'clock in the morning he had not yet arrived, his impresario, Walter Mocchi, went to fetch him and found him getting ready to go to bed. Only by much coaxing was he induced to attend the banquet.

All Italian institutions invited him to special ceremonies, but as he was generally tired after the preformances he would often accept an engagement and then not appear. His impresario had a hard time, for he had ordered the playbills to be printed in a way which did not please Mascagni, who calmly locked himself in his room and refused to attend the opening performance. Signor Mocchi dared not intercede, so he sent the manager, a quiet, docile man, who first pleaded outside the door, and then, when admitted by the maestro, begged on his knees that he would relent. The sight of this little earnest man weeping at the prospective loss of 20,000 pesetas, if the money had to be given back to the audience, touched Mascagni's sense of humor and caused him to relent.
